Good Manufacturing Practice (GMP) pharmacies ensure the highest standards in pharmaceutical production and distribution. GMP regulations mandate rigorous quality control measures, including detailed documentation, standardized procedures, and regular inspections. These practices aim to guarantee the safety, efficacy, and quality of medicines. Compliance with GMP guidelines involves maintaining a clean and controlled environment, employing qualified personnel, and conducting thorough testing of raw materials and finished products. By adhering to GMP standards, pharmacies minimize the risk of contamination and ensure that medications are produced consistently and safely, thereby protecting public health and maintaining consumer trust in pharmaceutical products.

So, in this regard to educate the 2nd year BAMS students, GMP certified Pharmacy of Patanjali, Haridwar, Padartha Unit of Patanjali, & Yoga gram Unit of Patanjali were visited.
